A HAPPENING IV: LEVIATHAN

Shea Theater, 71 Avenue A, 7-10pm

Sliding Scale 10-$25

After three successful years, Eggtooth Productions returns to present "A Happening IV: LEVIATHAN," a two-day multi-arts festival immersing participants in a theatrical world of myth, magic and mystery inspired by Moby Dick, Jonah and other Nautical tales of Great Whales. A true interdisciplinary feat, this festival brings together over 30 local performance artists, actors, musicians, and dancers staging original work as intimate theatrical interactions amidst large-scale installations. Featured Valley performers include actors from Eggtooth Ensemble as well as co-directors Sam V. Perry, Joshua Ruder, K Adler, and Ashley Kramer. Set within large-scale installations constructed throughout the Shea Theater Arts Center, traditional lines of performance blur as players and audience members weave in and out of multiple timelines and narratives. Open exploration is encouraged, but not required. You may decide to sit and watch the action unfold around you. We invite you to choose your own adventure.

Friday, October 25

HALLOWEEN MOVIE IN THE PARK

Goosebumps (PG, 2015)

Peskeompskut Park, Avenue A + Seventh St, 7pm

Starring Jac Black. After moving to a new small town, teenage Zach Cooper meets the beautiful girl next door, Hannah. Zach comes when he learns that Hannah has a mysterious dad who is revealed to be R.L. Stine, the author of the bestselling "Goosebumps" series. There is a reason why Stine is so strange: the monsters he writes about are real and Stine protects his readers by keeping them locked up in their books. Zach unintentionally unleashes the monsters, and they begin to terrorize the town. It's up to Stine, Zach, Hannah, and Zach's friend Chad to put all the monsters back in their books. Sponsored by Montague parks and Recreation.
